Railroad and express men bear testimony to the truth of the liquor dealers' statement. Commercial travellers tell the same story. Farmers who formerly a drinker two while in town new keep a jug or a five-gallon keg at home and tipple continually. In my many trip around the State I see and bear these ets, and such being the case, I contend that the time has come to make a change for the better. While refraining from approving or disapproving of prohibition as a theory, I assert that prohibition is a flat failure in North Dakota.

A MOVEMENT has been set afoot in this city with a view to raising money for the purpose of removing the remains of the late W. B. Horton from San Carlos to this place for decent interment. It will be remembered that he was killed by an Apache at San Carlos some years ago, and was buried at that place. For many years he was connected with the public schools of this city and as an educator of the growing youth of Tueson, is well and favorably remembered. Old friends and associates and many of his former pupils have signified their intention of contributing to the fund for the removal of his remains. The sentiment is a noble one and reflects credit on his former friends and associates who thus show that a good man and a good citizen has not been forgotten. Horton had enemies but he likewise had many friends who pleasantly and lovingly remembered him for the good he did during his years of residence in this city, where and for the wiping out of every vestige under Governor Safford the public of federal supervision of national elecschool system was struggling for recognition. Now that a movement has been inaugurated for the removal of his succeed. The Republican senators remains, let us hope for a speedy consumation of the good work.

MEXICAN TRADE.

Consul Eugene Fechet, says the Denver Republican, who is stationed at Piedras Negras, Mexico, in a recent report to the State Department, has made "Mexican Trade, and How to Secure It," his subject. It is a matter of much importance and interest to American merchants and manufacturers, but, unfortunately, it is one in respect to which many of them are very ignorant.

The Democrats had no such acroples, Among the qualifications of a commer they never knew the meaning of the cial traveller in Mexico a knowledge of word, and Senator Gormae, with the the Spanish language is of prime imporapproval of Mr. Cleveland, has been tance. The Mexicans are a polite but very reserved people, and they are not accustomed to the methods of doing business which prevails among commercial travellers in this country. No drum mer who does not understand them, and especially if he does not speak their, language fluently, can accomplish much have followed any concessions made to with them. It is also important to emthe Populists. ploy in the counting house a man who can write Spanish, in order that involces and all the correspondence with Mexican merchants may be written in that language.

Merchants in Mexico are not accus tomed to buy goods on the each or short-time system which pravails in this country. They are given long credit by European dealers upon the payment of interest at from 4 to 8 per cent. per annum. This enables them to extend a credit of three or four months to their own customers. Although in this respect a change has come over commer cial transactions in Mexico, it will be a long time before the long credit system is abandosed. American merchants should, therefore, he prepared to give their Mexican customers long credit if they wish to secure their trade.

The two classes of article in which there is most room for an extension of trade in Mexico are apricuitural imple. ments and mining machinery. The Mexican farmers knows very little about improved implements of agriculture, but they can be taught their value and use, and there is, therefore, a great future in this trade. There is probably even more scope for the development of the trade in mining machinery. Denver is already selling considerable mining machinery in that country, and if there were a factory here making agricultural implements this city could become the center a united voice has been raised. Disapof supply, not only for the arid region in
